

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements.....	5
List of Tables	13
List of Figures.....	13
1 Introduction: Why Does Transnational Social Protection in Migration Studies Matter?	15
1.1 Social Significance: Bulgarian Migration in the Context of EU Welfare Debates.....	15
1.2 Research Objectives.....	20
1.3 Scientific Questions	22
1.3.1 Main scientific question	22
1.3.2 Additional sub-questions.....	23
1.4 Research Goals	23
1.5 Structure of the Work	23
2 Bulgarian Migration and Mobility Patterns in the Context of the EU.....	25
2.1 Short Overview of Immigration to Germany Before the EU Accession.....	25
2.2 Bulgaria Joining the European Union	26
2.3 Mobility From Bulgaria After the EU Enlargement	30
2.4 Current Dynamics of Bulgarian Mobility to Germany	31
2.5 Bulgarian Emigration Policies: Implications for Return Migration	34
3 Theoretical Approach: Defining Migrant Agency in Transnational Social Protection.....	37
3.1 State of the Art: Transnational Lens to Formal and Informal Aspects of Social Protection.....	37

3.1.1	Transnational lens in the context of intra-European migration.....	37
3.1.2	Family and migration in EU context.....	38
3.1.3	Transnational families and care.....	40
3.1.4	Social protection of migrants in transnational aspect	44
3.1.5	Hierarchisation of social rights as formal resource environment with impact on migrants' access to social rights.....	46
3.1.6	Portability of social rights for mobile individuals	48
3.2	Conceptual Approaches: Migrant Agency—Between Germany and Bulgaria	49
3.2.1	The concept of formal and informal social protection and its relation to migrant agency	49
3.2.2	Elaborations on agency and structure related to agentic orientations in the context of time	55
3.2.3	Emirbayer and Mische's (1998) agency in migration studies....	59
3.2.4	Migrant agency approaches in this study of mobile Bulgarians' and their significant others' agency articulations.....	60
3.2.5	Bulgarian families in the past and present— generations and values	72
3.3	Conceptual Synthesis of This Work: Approaching Transnational Social Protection Through Migrant Agency.....	86
3.3.1	Changing resource environments and their relation to formal and informal social protection.....	86
3.3.2	Migrant agency as modes of approaching social protection and its complex interrelation with opportunity structures in the changing resource environments	90
3.3.3	Structural influences of familial and gender relations, socio-economic status, and the role of significant others and social networks	95
4	Methodological Approach and Research Methods	99
4.1	An Interpretative Approach to Policy Analysis of EU Regulations on Social Security Coordination.....	100

4.1.1	Data collection and document analysis.....	102
4.1.2	German and Bulgarian expert interviews on the topic of social protection.....	102
4.1.3	Reflexions on conducting the expert interviews.....	104
4.2	Approaching the Questions of Migrant Agency Based on the Grounded Theory.....	105
4.2.1	Strategies to access the field and data collection.....	108
4.2.2	Reflexions on coding and theoretical sampling.....	108
4.2.3	Proceedings in conducting interviews with mobile Bulgarians and their significant others.....	111
5	Mismatch Between German and Bulgarian Social Protection Systems— Implications for Migrant Families.....	117
5.1	The Analysis of Formal Regulations of Access and Portability of Social Security for Mobile Bulgarians.....	117
5.1.1	Comparing schemes of social protection of sending and receiving countries as an initial approach.....	117
5.1.2	Analysing access and portability of unemployment benefits between Bulgaria and Germany: The dominance of restrictions and high degree of conditionality towards mobile Bulgarians.....	120
5.1.3	System mismatch as a barrier to portability of family-related entitlements for mobile Bulgarians.....	123
5.1.4	Encountering complexity: Mobile Bulgarians' access and portability of health-related social security rights.....	126
5.1.5	Clear regulations on pensions and institutional collaboration but potential limitations for mobile Bulgarians.....	130
5.2	Conclusions.....	134
6	Subordinated Agency Articulations: Shame and Humiliation Related to Formal Social Protection.....	137
6.1	Subordinated Agency: Between Opportunity Structures of Formal Transnational Social Protection.....	138

6.1.1	Social inequalities and semi-legal working and living arrangements in accessing social rights	141
6.1.2	German language as perceived obstacle to entering the system of formal social protection	153
6.2	Dominant Importance of Informal Social Protection	155
6.2.1	Family migration projects.....	156
6.2.2	When resource environments lessen: Lacking social networks in Germany	162
6.3	The Dominance of the Habitual Agency Element: Difficult to “Change”, When Changing the Environment	165
6.3.1	Strong iterational (habitual) aspects of agency as limitation to accessing formal social protection	165
6.3.2	Projective (future-oriented) articulations of migrant agency	169
6.3.3	Weak practical–evaluative articulations of migrant agency towards formal social protection	170
7	Empowerment Agency Types: Diverse Resource Environments Contributing to Social Rights Awareness.....	175
7.1	The Formal Resource Environment: Migrant Status and Labour Market Conditions as Barriers in the Beginning of Migration Projects Before 2014	176
7.1.1	The beginning in Germany before 2014 and obstacles in finding a job, because of labour market restrictions	178
7.1.2	Experiencing labour market conditions: Easy finding of a job in Germany?.....	180
7.2	Strong Future Orientations and Present Practicality: Projective and Practical–Evaluative Agency Elements	183
7.2.1	Chain strategies of knowledge and the importance of formal social protection.....	184
7.2.2	Hierarchized employment statuses hindering the insurance against the risk of unemployment	188
7.2.3	Practical–evaluative elements in transnational strategies of social protection	191

7.3	Permanent Migration Projects–Legitimations for Emigration	195
7.3.1	Lack of good formal social protection in Bulgaria as legitimation for emigration	196
7.3.2	Perceived disadvantages and notions of deservedness in claiming child benefit.....	198
7.3.3	Strategies of formal and informal social protection of the whole family.....	200
8	Agency Between Subordination and Empowerment: The Gradually Learned Assertiveness	211
8.1	Arduous Battle with Family Benefits Office.....	212
8.1.1	Structural barriers in transnational social protection: Very lengthy procedures for granting German child benefits for children living in Bulgaria	213
8.1.2	Perceptions and attitudes towards formal social protection: From habitual agency to practicality	216
8.1.3	Gradual awareness of social security rights	220
8.2	Gradually Learned Assertiveness Through Informal Resource Environments	221
8.2.1	Experience of gradual assertiveness through significant others.....	222
8.2.2	Mutual support from significant others in Bulgaria	227
8.3	Migrants Between Subordination and Empowerment in Accessing Family Related Benefits.....	228
8.3.1	Future oriented agency articulations in the family migration project	228
8.3.2	Gradual awareness of social security rights.....	232
8.3.3	Understanding national social security systems: Confusion and miscommunication with the German Family Benefits Office.....	234
8.4	Feeling Offended as a European Citizen Claiming Child Benefit in Germany: “We’re All Equal, Aren’t We?”	237

8.4.1	From temporary to permanent migration: posted work unsatisfactory for long-term stay and formal social protection.....	237
8.4.2	Felt discrimination in the long process of applying for child benefit	241
8.5	Portability of Unemployment Entitlement From Bulgaria to Germany: Hindered in Claiming Due to Missing Information	245
8.5.1	Dreams and plans for emigration— strong projective agency articulations	247
8.5.2	Administrative requirements and informal strategies.....	248
8.5.3	Perceptions and attitudes towards formal social protection....	253
8.5.4	Comparison with previous narratives.....	257
9	Discussion: Towards Gradual Empowerment.....	261
9.1	The Interplay of Formal and Informal Social Protection Within Changing Resource Environments.....	264
9.1.1	In the subordinated agency articulations	266
9.1.2	In the empowered agency articulations	270
9.1.3	In the gradually learned assertiveness articulations.....	273
9.2	Structural Barriers to Formal Social Protection	276
9.2.1	Strategies of knowledge and informal resource environments.....	277
9.2.2	Agency vs. structure in claiming social security rights transnationally.....	281
9.2.3	An outlook	288
	References.....	293
	Appendix A.....	309
	Appendix B.....	311
	Appendix C.....	314